THE VIRGINIA CLINTON KELLEY FUND

Virginia Clinton Kelley lost her personal struggle with breast cancer in 1994. The Virginia Clinton Kelley Fund pays tribute to a woman whose life exemplified the vision and strength to overcome seemingly insurmountable odds to achieve her goals, and who embodied the grassroots spirit of the National Breast Cancer Coalition. The Fund will support NBCC programs which educate and train breast cancer survivors to influence research and public policy, foster innovation in research and health care, and expand access to quality care. It will also support collaborations between women with breast cancer, researchers, and health care stakeholders.

We are honored that former President Bill Clinton will join us as we launch the Virginia Clinton Kelley Fund within NBCCF. In her honor, this Fund will result in bold strategies and creative approaches to achieve NBCC's goal of eradicating breast cancer.

NATIONAL BREAST CANCER COALITION FUND

Driven by the power of educated activists who know how to make a real difference, the National Breast Cancer Coalition Fund (NBCCF) is the nation's leading grassroots advocacy organization dedicated to ending breast cancer. A Coalition of hundreds of organizations and thousands of individuals, NBCCF empowers women and their families to speak up — and out — about the political, scientific and health care issues that affect their lives. NBCCF's main goals are to increase federal funding for breast cancer research and collaborate with the scientific community to implement new models of research; improve access to high-quality health care and clinical trials for all women; and educate advocates in all aspects of the breast cancer decisionmaking process.
